Terry, from feral puppy to Flynn, happy & confident dog

Our Volunteer Coordinator, Kristi Talbert, got to spend a couple hours with Terry (now Flynn) and his new mom, Lisa, while down in Portland and he is doing AWESOME! He's settled into his new home and is a happy, more confident guy...who is definitely loved. He's doing well learning his house rules, gets to go for daily walks and is visiting dog parks to meet new dogs and new people.

He's come a long way from the feral landfill puppy thanks to all the love and dedication of our Wags volunteers and now his new mom, Lisa.

We love happy endings!!

A Wiley Tale

Wiley has been with us (Minnie and me) for a little over 16 weeks and he couldn't be a better fit. Wiley started here in a crate in the kitchen and now sleeps in his posturepedic bed in living room. As of this week, he has been sleeping at night in another nice bed in the bedroom.

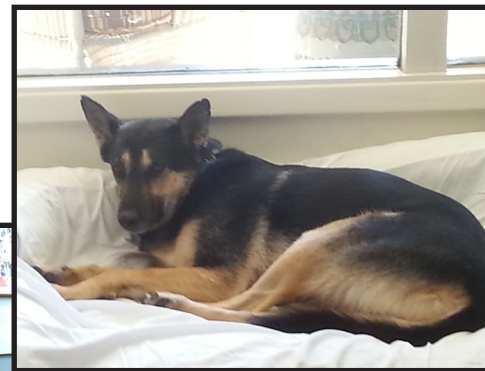

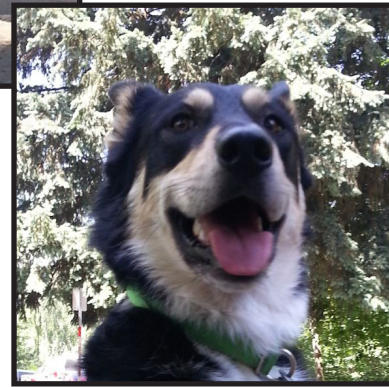

We have a routine of breakfast then dog park to help with socializing. He loves (really loves) going "bye-bye" and is a great traveler. He is very smart yet sensitive and has a tender heart. I love him so much.

We went to our vet on Monday and he weighs 81 lbs and he got a clean bill of health. I purchased a DNA test online and just submitted it.

Flynn with mom, Lisa

Fynn, what a smile!

Waiting on results in a few weeks. We think he is shepherd / coyote hence the Wiley coyote. Will let you know. Minnie and Wiley are good for one another and there is much joy in our household. I could talk all day about "my boy".

Happy tails!! Ellen, Minnie & Wiley

TIPS FROM:

Own a pet(s) and want to buy a home?

When you treat your pet(s) as a member of your family, it's important to keep your pet's needs in mind in any pending home purchase. Here are some tips to help ensure your future home and neighborhood are pet-friendly:

1. Check local requirements. Familiarize yourself with city/county ordinances that are in place for health and safety reasons. Often, they require you to obey leash laws and clean up after your pet in public places. Many communities are striving to create and maintain environmentally friendly and pet-friendly parks. If you plan to house a farm animal as a pet, such as a goat or a donkey, clarify the zoning regulations and ordinances with the proper officials.

2. Ask for condo or HOA rules. While a single-family home is likely to provide your pet with the most freedom, a townhouse, apartment or condominium may be what fits your budget. Homeowners associations (HOAs) typically govern condos and townhouses with rules and regulations for what's allowed, disallowed and required for pets.

3. Assess the home layout. Consider creature comforts inside and outside the home. Will your pet have enough yard or living space to live and play in without difficulty? Will your pet be happier with carpeting or tiled floors? Note whether the windows are at floor level, as your pet can accidentally run into them. If your pet is older, stairs may be difficult and your pet could be confined to a single floor in the house. Don't forget to check the outside yard area. You can also speak to neighbors to see if they are pet-friendly. After all, a happy pet makes a happy owner.

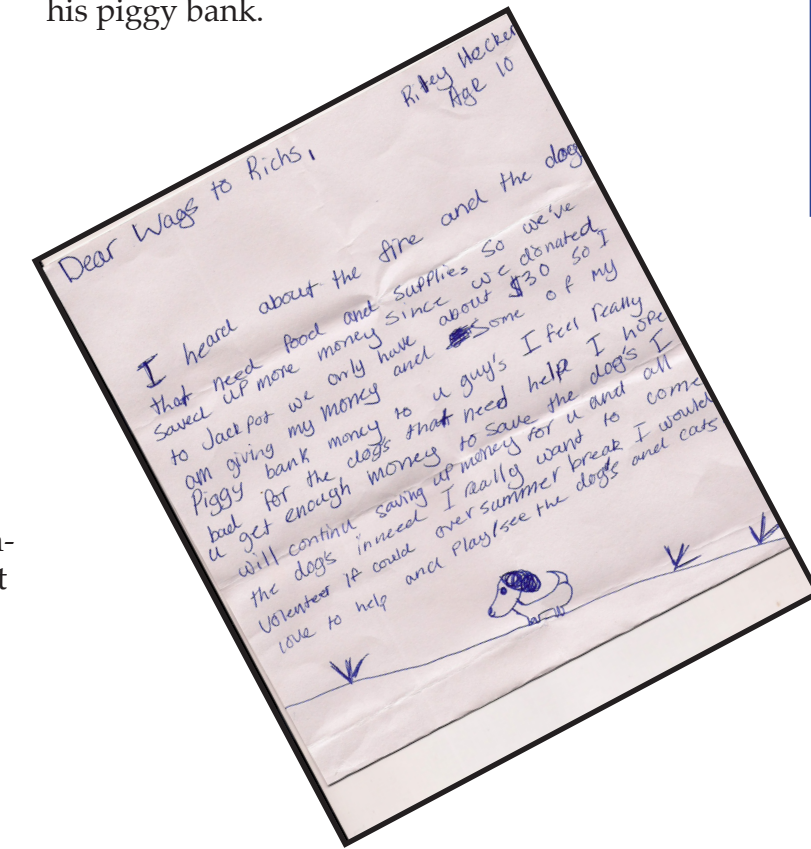

Amy has been a licensed Realtor since April 2014. During that time she has made over $8,000 in donations to animal rescues and sanctuaries; she makes a donation in her clients name from every commission earned. "I discovered the need to go into business for myself and my whole real estate business is designed to allow me to work with people like myself who love animals. This is the big goal," she says, while snuggling her rescue dog, Bella.

Thank you Amy, for your continued support and donations to Wags to Riches.

Teach The Children

Riley is 10 years old and a friend of Wags, who made the first donation for Jackpot and again for the animals during the fire in Wenatchee. Below is the letter he sent to us along with his donation from his piggy bank.

A Big Thank You to

Mini Storage/True's Auto Sales for generously donating storage space for Wags to hold donated items until the Barking Lot Sale, to Chris and Kim Wertenberger of Country Financial for the use of their parking lot for the Barking Lot Sale, to the incredible donations from donors who support the mission and goals of Wags to Riches and to the volunteers of Wags who worked for weeks pricing and arranging and then the day of the event selling. Left over items were divided up among other non-profits to help benefit others such as the Battered Women's Shelter, the Women's Back to Work program thru the YWCA, Rod's House, The Re-Store, Wounded Warrior's Project as well as Value Village.

Wags is incredibly grateful all the people who flooded the parking lot and spent, spent, spent. All of the money raised was put right to work helping the save more animals.
